Standards not met

Standard 1.7

- The pharmacy has written data protection procedures which has been read by members of the team. But they do not have the ability to destroy confidential information effectively. This had led to its team members using scissors to cut up confidential information, and some confidential information was found in the waste bin. So the pharmacy is unable to demonstrate that it protect people's private information appropriately.

Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.2

- The pharmacy has processes to monitor and improve its services and its team members discuss mistakes that are identified during the dispensing process. But they do not keep records of the actions they take to reduce the risk of similar mistakes happening again. So they may not be able to always show what improvements they are making to their services.

Standard 2.2

- The pharmacy team complete some training by reading the company's written procedures. But the team are not provided with appraisals or performance reviews to help identify individual learning and development needs. So members of the team do not have clear access to ongoing learning to help them learn and develop new skills.

Standard 4.1

- The pharmacy does not have any external signage to indicate it is a pharmacy, or describe what services are provided. So members of the public may not be aware what healthcare services are available to them.
