Areas of good practice

Standard 1.7

- Members of the pharmacy team undertake yearly information governance training modules to remind them of the importance to protect people's information. And the pharmacy receives yearly audits to identify any shortcomings in data protection. This helps to ensure the pharmacy is actively mindful of protecting people's information.

Standard 2.2

- Members of the pharmacy team complete regular learning each month. Records of training are kept. This helps members of the team to refresh their knowledge and to help learn and develop new skills.

Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 4.2

- The pharmacy provides medicines in multi-compartment compliance packs to help people take their medicines. But they do not routinely provide patient information leaflets each time with their medicines. So people may not always have up to date information about their medicines.
