Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.2

- Pharmacy team members record some of their mistakes. However, some details of near misses are not always captured, which may increase the risk of some underlying patterns and trends not being detected. This may mean that some opportunities to learn and improve may be missed.

Standard 3.1

- The retail area of the pharmacy is suitably maintained. But several non-patient facing areas are showing signs of wear and tear which detracts from the overall professional appearance of the pharmacy.

Standard 4.2

- Pharmacy services are generally well managed, but the workflow through the dispensary means that prescriptions are sometimes stacked on top of one another which may increase the risk of errors. The pharmacy's compliance aid packs are generally organised, but they do not routinely record descriptions of all medications so people may not be able to clearly identify the contents of compliance aid packs.

Standard 4.3

- The pharmacy gets its medicines from reputable sources and it has some systems in place to help ensure that they are fit for supply. But team members do not always record the actions that they have taken in response to fridge temperature deviations. This means that they may not always be able to show that medications requiring refrigeration have been suitably stored.
