Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.2

- Pharmacy team members keep a record when things go wrong. But they do not always use this information effectively to identify underlying patterns and trends. So, they may miss some opportunities to learn and make improvements.

Standard 1.6

- The pharmacy keeps the records it needs to by law, but information is sometimes missing or inaccurate, which compromises the integrity of the audit trails. And the records for higher-risk medicines are not always regularly audited, so team members may not always identify errors or discrepancies as swiftly as they could.

Standard 2.2

- Pharmacy team members are trained for the roles in which they are working. But they do not complete ongoing learning or get any structured feedback on their development. So, the pharmacy may not always be able to demonstrate how team members maintain their knowledge and skills.

Standard 4.2

- Pharmacy services are generally well organised. But the pharmacy does not always identify prescriptions for higher-risk medicines. So, some opportunities to provide people with advice and further counselling may be missed.

Standard 4.3

- The pharmacy gets its medicines from reputable suppliers and team members complete some checks to help make sure medicines are fit for supply. But they do not always records these checks, so the pharmacy may not be able to demonstrate that medicines are stored and managed appropriately.
