Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.1

- The pharmacy has procedures in place but they are not always kept up to date. This may mean that they may not reflect current best practice.
- The pharmacy prescribes medicines for period delay remotely, which is collected in person by the patient at one of the company's pharmacies. The pharmacy has provided evidence that a risk assessment has been done for the remote prescribing service in general. But it has not conducted a risk assessment to identify and mitigate the potential risks specifically with prescribing medicines for period delay remotely. So, there may be risks involved with this particular service that the pharmacy has not appropriately considered.

Standard 1.6

- The pharmacy maintains records for its private prescription service but these records do not always go into detail. For example, they do not contain information on any safety netting or side effects that the patients may be experiencing.

Standard 1.8

- Some members of the team have completed safeguarding training but some cannot remember doing it. And they are not all sure about signs of abuse or who to contact if there is a concern. This may make it harder for them to identify and deal with safeguarding concerns effectively.
