Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.1

- The pharmacy has standard operating procedures in place for the services provided. However, they are overdue a review, which means the pharmacy team may not be following the most up to date processes if any changes have been implemented since the last review.

Standard 1.2

- The pharmacy team discuss mistakes that are identified during the dispensing process. But they do not routinely record near miss incidents, so may miss out on opportunities to identify trends or patterns and subsequent learning to help improve the service they provide.

Standard 1.6

- Audits of higher risk medicines are not carried out on a regular basis, which may make it more challenging to investigate a discrepancy and may increase the possibility of diversion going unnoticed for a period of time.

Standard 4.2

- The pharmacy does not routinely highlight prescriptions for higher-risk medicines such as warfarin and methotrexate. So, it may be missing out on opportunities to provide additional counselling information to people taking them.

Standard 4.3

- The pharmacy sources medicines safely and carries out some checks to help make sure that medicines are in good condition and suitable to supply. But a few stock medications were decanted into other containers without including the batch number and or expiry date on the labels. This does not meet minimum labelling requirements and may increase the possibility of supplying a medicine that is not safe or fit for purpose. And it may make it harder for the pharmacy to take appropriate action following a safety alert or recall.
