Areas of good practice

Standard 1.2

- The pharmacy continually monitors and reviews its mistakes and shares learnings from these with the whole of the team, to make its services safer.

Standard 1.8

- The pharmacy understands its role in protecting vulnerable people. Its team members are all appropriately trained about safeguarding. And the pharmacy can show it acts to protect people's welfare, when needed.

Standard 2.2

- The pharmacy team members are provided with development opportunities, regular training updates and support to keep their skills and knowledge current so they can provide pharmacy services safely and effectively.

Standard 4.2

- The pharmacy provides its services safely. And it actively liaises with other healthcare providers when appropriate so that people get the right care and treatment.
- The pharmacy uses scanning technology to help it identify higher-risk medicines, so that its team members are able to provide additional information to people when handing out these types of medicines. It also keeps a record of the checks it has made, so this information is available to refer to in the event of a future query.
