Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.2

- The pharmacy team records near misses, and it regularly reviews them. However, the team does not always record the reason for each mistake, which limits additional opportunities to identify patterns and improve safety.

Standard 1.6

- The pharmacy monitors its controlled drug (CD) stock quantities. However, these checks are intermittent, so there may be a delay in detecting a discrepancy.
- The pharmacy keeps records of people's height and weight it obtains during weight management consultations. However, it does not keep clear records of other checks it completes for the service, to show how the person met the eligibility criteria to receive the treatment.

Standard 4.3

- Records indicate that the pharmacy team checks medicines stock expiry dates. However, these checks are intermittent, which may lead to medication becoming short dated or passing its expiry date.
