Areas of good practice

Standard 1.1

- The pharmacy identifies and manages the risks associated with providing its services. It carries out regular reviews of its procedures and prescribing policies. It also risk-assesses the conditions it treats and does not offer medicines which are found to carry too much risk. It maintains its prescribing and consultation records as well as the reasons for refusing an order. The pharmacy then signposts people elsewhere to obtain their medicines so they are not left without any medicine.

Standard 1.2

- The pharmacy carries out regular checks and audits to confirm that its pharmacy procedures are being properly followed. It shares the outcomes and action points with the pharmacy team. Near misses and follow up are recorded and analysed for patterns. And it translates its records into a visual aid as an alternative way to learn.

Standard 2.2

- The pharmacy actively encourages planned, relevant learning and development. It holds a weekly meeting with an external doctor and all its team members can access the meeting notes and action points to take forward to the next meeting.

Standard 4.2

- The pharmacy carries out audits of patients on medicines which are higher risk to assess the need for clinical interventions or counselling. This helps ensure the prescribing service is safe and up to date.
