Pharmacy context and inspection background

The pharmacy is situated on the second floor of a commercial multi-occupancy building in central London. The area is well known as a hub for private healthcare and medical services. The pharmacy does not provide any NHS services. It is not open to the public and most medicines are delivered directly to people's homes. The pharmacy mainly fulfils prescriptions for medicines used to treat Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) issued by a specialist clinic that it works in partnership with. It also provides some online services including which people can access via the pharmacy's website www.pharmazonexpress.com

This was the first routine inspection of the pharmacy since it was registered in June 2025.

Standards that were met with areas for improvement

Standard 1.6

- The pharmacy is able to provide some documentation to demonstrate that checks are being completed as part of the weight management service. However, consultation notes lack sufficient detail and they do not consistently include personalised information relevant to each patient. This limits the pharmacy's ability to demonstrate that prescribing decisions are safe, appropriate, and based on individual clinical need.

Standard 3.1

- The website provides general information about the pharmacy and its services. However it does not clearly explain where each part of the service is based or include information about the prescribing service or prescribers to avoid any confusion for users.

Standard 4.2

- Dispensing labels do not include the pharmacy's address. Without this information, people may find it more difficult to identify which pharmacy has supplied their medicine, particularly if they need to contact the pharmacy for advice or in the event of a problem.
- The pharmacy uses video consultations for its weight management service. It records people's weight during these consultations. However, it cannot clearly demonstrate how it verifies the information needed to ensure an accurate Body Mass Index calculation or other relevant healthcare information. This means it cannot easily demonstrate that its prescribing decisions are safe and appropriate.
